The Quintessential Garden Tool* (* Garden Optional)

What Is a Hod?

Hods were originally used by both the French and the British for everything from carrying bricks and mortar to measuring and washing alewives.

For hundreds of years, Maine's clam diggers have used hods to hold and rinse their catch.

"Maine Garden Hods", styled after the traditional clam hod, are built to last from quality hard and soft woods and durable food-grade vinyl-covered mesh.

Designed for harvesting and washing plants, fruits, and vegetables, users have discovered that the Hod lends itself to hundreds of other uses - inside and out - any time of the year.

You'll find the Hod is one garden tool that's useful indoors or out...any time of the year!
